Close Watch On Buildup By North Viet Nam Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jet fighters equipped with air to air missiles have been heading toward the Communist north the past few days to meet the threat of approaching Red Chinese MIG planes, U.S. military sources say.

Though no clashes have taken place, the opposing flights were reported close enough to make positive radar identification, the sources added.

Saigon, capital of South Viet Nam, held an air raid alert Sunday, its first since World War II when U.S. planes bombed the Japanese-occupied city.

Communist propaganda organs renewed charges against the United States for its reprisal action against North Viet Nam last week. And North Viet Nam indicated it was rejecting a U.N. Security Council invitation to take part in a debate on the crisis.

Informants said the Chinese MIGs, flying from Hainan Island across the Gulf of Tonkin, halted short of the heavily-reinforced frontier and U.S. naval units in the South China Sea. The American planes were F102 fighters from the Da Nang Air Base and Navy F4 and F8 jets from the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Some 30 U.S. jets moved into position Saturday to meet a possible Communist thrust, sources said.

Communist China said Sunday that the U.S. raid on North Viet Nam gives Peking "the right to take action" in "every possible form" to help the North Vietnamese regime.

Peking People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party, said in an editorial quoted in a radio broadcast: "U.S. aggressors, don't you rejoice too soon. Don't think you can get away with your surprise attack on the democratic Republic of Viet Nam. To tell you frankly, the debt in blood you owe the Vietnamese people must be repaid."

Seeks Views Of Candidates On a Top Job

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. John M. Dalton said today he wants to get approval of both candidates for governor before he suggests to the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development the name of a successor to Lawrence A. Schneider as director.

Schneider resigned last week, effective Sept. 1, to become executive vice president of the state Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter to Schneider, Dalton said "I think the time you have been at the head of our Department of Commerce and Industrial Development has been the most fruitful in the history of the state."

"More practical, result-getting programs have been put to work than ever before and Missouri is much the better for them."

Dalton told newsmen he wanted the approval of Secy. of State Warren E. Hearnes and Ethan A. Shepley, Democratic and Republican candidates, respectively. That way, he said, the impetus Missouri has attained in industrial development will not be lost.

"We need the new director right away," Dalton said.

He said he knew Schneider was going to accept the State Chamber of Commerce position about mid-June and there were no political implications in Schneider's decision to change jobs.

Shepley Fires First 'Blast'

One-Party Rule Target Of Republican Candidate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Ethan Shepley opened his Republican campaign for governor today with a new blast at Democratic monopoly in state government.

"The primary has not changed the principle issue in this election," Shepley said. "The issue is still one-party rule in Missouri. We must end one-party rule if we are going to halt the decline in Missouri."

Mourners Pay Tribute To Dead Workers

Eulogize Slain Trio As Martyrs At Special Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Joined hand to hand and chanting "we shall overcome," thousands of white and Negro mourners paid tribute Sunday night to two white civil rights workers slain in Mississippi.

In separate services and at an outdoor rally, the young men were eulogized as "martyrs, compassionate and totally committed to nonviolence."

The FBI discovered the bodies of the New Yorkers — Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, — and James Chaney, 21, a Negro from Meridian, Miss., last Tuesday in a grave near Philadelphia, Miss. The trio vanished near Philadelphia June 21 at the beginning of a summer drive to register Negroes to vote.

At the memorial service for Schwerner at the Community Church in Manhattan, James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said, "one of the tragedies of our world is that evil societies kill their conscience and gentleness."

Earlier, Farmer had announced the appointment of Rita Schwerner, Michael's widow, as a field secretary for CORE. She will help establish a memorial community center in Meridian, Miss., Farmer said.

Another speaker, John Lewis, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said the "question is not who killed Mickey, James and Andy, but what killed" them.

"Apathy," he said. At the end of the memorial service, thousands inside and outside the hall joined hands and softly sang the civil rights theme: "We shall overcome, someday."

Agree to a Cease-Fire

US Pressing Efforts To Keep Peace

Drive to Propel Cyprus Crisis Toward Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States pressed diplomatic efforts today to keep the lid on the Cyprus cease-fire and propel it toward an eventual permanent solution.

After an opening round of top-level diplomacy in which President Johnson cabled personal appeals Sunday to the Greek, Turkish and Cypriot government heads, Washington was channeling its main efforts through the United Nations.

Renewed hostilities, U.S. officials feared, could bring on a war between Greece and Turkey that would shatter NATO's eastern flank and conceivably pave the way for a wider East-West conflict.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball voiced the U.S. view Sunday night after a week-end of efforts to shut off Greek Cypriot attacks on Turkish Cypriot positions and counterattacks by planes and warships from Turkey.

Johnson's appeals to the three government heads and the U.N. Security Council's cease-fire call at an emergency afternoon session highlighted the feverish diplomatic effort.

"We should avoid a conflict which would be disastrous for all concerned, and we've made progress toward this tonight," Ball said in a CBS interview. "I am hopeful that we can bring this problem toward a permanent solution rather quickly."

U.S. diplomats hoped that the de facto cease-fire on the island brought about by nightfall would be cemented by the U.N. cease-fire call, giving the U.N. commander in Cyprus a chance to work out arrangements on the spot for a permanent cessation of hostilities.

Washington also sought a withdrawal of an estimated 5,000-7,000 professional-type soldiers which have slipped into the island since President Makarios served notice last December he wanted an end to the existing constitutional arrangement dividing power between the Greek and Turkish factions.

They include perhaps 4,000-6,000 fighters added to the Greek side on Cyprus and probably fewer than 1,000 from Turkey, according to U.S. estimates.

First By Pope Paul VI

Encyclical Calls For Peace Watch

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI offered in the first encyclical of his reign today to go beyond "a watchful and understanding interest" and help seek honorable solutions of disputes threatening world peace.

Without specifying exactly what his intervention might take, the Roman Catholic pontiff wrote:

"Regarding the great and universal question of world peace, we say at once that we shall feel it specially incumbent upon us not merely to devote a watchful and understanding interest, but also to entertain a more assiduous and efficacious concern."

"This will be, of course, within the limits of our ministry and so utterly divorced from purely temporal interests and strictly political forms, but it will be eager to make its contribution in educating mankind to sentiments and ways of acting contrary to violent and deadly conflict, and in fostering rational and civilized agreements for peaceful relations between nations."

"We shall also be solicitous to help by proclaiming higher human principles that should serve to temper the passions and selfishness from which armed conflicts spring, and promote the harmonious relations and fruitful collaboration of all peoples, and we shall be ready to intervene, where an opportunity presents itself, in order to assist the contending parties to find honorable and fraternal solutions for their disputes."

The Pope also proposed a joint discussion with non-Christian religions, aimed at defending common ideals.

The 14,000-word encyclical — a letter to Roman Catholic bishops around the world — put down "practical guidelines" for Paul's 13-month-old pontificate.

It was a broad statement of

Chinese Hiked Force Before Tonkin Crisis

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China started pressing huge numbers of youths, factory workers and government officials into military service three weeks before the Gulf of Tonkin crisis, according to delayed official reports.

The reports said more than half a million people had been drafted and more are being called up.

Cyprus Results From UN Meet

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkey and the Greek Cypriot government agreed to a U.N. Security Council call for a cease-fire on this embattled island today. A brief Turkish air attack on a northwest village before Turkey's announcement sent a new scare through Cyprus.

Greece said it hoped the strafing attack on a square in Polis was due to a mix-up in Turkish military orders.

A government source in Nicosia said 10 persons were wounded in the Polis attack.

A Turkish government spokesman said after a Cabinet meeting in Ankara that Turkey would accept the U.N. call for the cease-fire, but only on the condition that Greek Cypriots halt their attacks on Turks on the island. The Turkish Cabinet met an hour after reports of the Polis attack reached Ankara.

The Greek Cypriot government said it had ordered a cease-fire unilaterally as of Saturday. It made no mention of fighting that erupted around the Turkish village of Kokkina Sunday or around Nicosia Sunday night.

A Greek Cypriot spokesman said:

"In a statement today, Archbishop Makarios (Cyprus' president) said the government of the Cyprus republic will fully respect a Security Council resolution on the cease-fire in Cyprus."

There were no reports of ground fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots in the tense northwest coastal strip between Polis and Xeros.

The Soviet Union assailed the series of Turkish attacks and warned Turkey that it is risking war.

The attack on Polis was the fourth consecutive day of Turkish air activity over Cyprus.

A Greek Cypriot spokesman said there was no word from Polis on whether there were casualties.

Alex Eifty, an Associated Press correspondent at the scene, said the American-built F104 jets appeared while the townspeople were sipping coffee in the main square, most of them talking about the crisis.

He said villagers ducked for cover before the jets made two runs, firing into the square.

Cool Front Moving In With Showers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri is in the path of a cool front, preceded by showers and thunderstorms.

The showers are expected in the northwest tonight and over the state Tuesday.

The long-range forecast indicates the temperatures will be from 2 to 6 degrees below normal through next Saturday. Some more showers and thunderstorms are expected Friday and Saturday.

Peace By Preparedness Bid by Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, calling for "peace through preparedness," said today the war in South Viet Nam never would have started had the Communists believed the United States would act there.

"We have gone to war, we Americans, only when the enemy has thought us too weak to fight," or has doubted the nation's will to act, he said.

He said that that was the case at the outset of World War II, and added that there would have been no Korean War had the United States not "blithely announced" that that nation was outside its sphere of interest.

Goldwater said American troops are in Viet Nam today "fighting...we hope for the freedom of these people..."

"This would never have occurred had the enemy really believed that we would move in," Goldwater told more than 1,500 persons at the annual conference of the National Association of Counties.

Goldwater said Communist "doubt of our strength, and doubt of our will to use it," may have led North Viet Nam to stage its patrol-boat attacks on American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Goldwater got a half-dozen rounds of applause, one when he declared:

"I support, before any one gets the wrong idea, as does my party, as do all Americans, the President's firm action in response."

He was applauded again when he added, "We will not let this one action obscure a multitude of other needed actions."

Goldwater noted the speech was his first formal address since the Republican National Convention nominated him for president. He said it will be interesting to see how it is reported.

Claim Kennedy Death Caused by Agitation Drive by Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities says the propaganda and agitation campaigns of the Communist party were responsible for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

However, the committee said it takes no position on the question of "whether the assassination of President Kennedy was an individual act or the work of conspiracy."

A presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren is expected to conclude next month that accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was a loner who acted out of his own aberrations when he fired the bullets that killed Kennedy last Nov. 22 in Dallas.

The House committee discussed Kennedy's murder in its annual report issued Sunday. It recommended that Congress pass a law making assassination of the president or vice president a federal crime.

Hoover Marks 90th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, marking his 90th birthday today, says "freedom of choice" is what made America great.

"Freedom is the open window through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit and of human dignity," he said. "With the preservation of these moral and spiritual qualities and with God's grace will come further greatness for our country."

The 31st president of the United States, in his home at the Waldorf Towers, entertained four old friends at lunch today and presided at a family dinner.

Congratulations — via cables, telegrams, letters — by the thousands have been received by Hoover.

President Johnson and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, along with governors of 15 other states, issued proclamations designating today as Herbert Hoover Day.

Hoover, who has survived a series of illnesses starting with a gall bladder attack in 1958, did not see newsmen Sunday, but issued a statement. His physician, Dr. Michael Lepore, said Hoover's general health is "good for a man of 90."

HERBERT HOOVER

Lepore said Hoover is mentally alert and only his "rugged constitution" has brought him through medical emergencies, including an operation for cancer.

The Hoover apartment was gaily decorated. There was a huge birthday cake shaped in the form of the Hoover Promenade at the World's Fair.

And the former president, always a baseball fan, watched the opening of the doubleheader at Yankee Stadium on television Sunday and saw the ceremony in his honor.

In his statement, Hoover said, "among us there is greater freedom for the individual man and woman than in any other nation."

Hoover voiced "deep regret" at the denial of "an equal chance for our Negro population."

He added, however: "Our 19 million American Negroes probably own more automobiles than all the 220 million Russians and the 200 million African Negroes put together."

Uniform Time Bill Under House Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The words "daylight saving time" and America's crazy-quilt time system may be on the way out.

A House Commerce subcommittee will take up and likely approve a bill Tuesday that overhauls the U.S. time system and attempts to bring order out of what the Interstate Commerce Commission calls "increasing chaos" in American time.

A similar bill was approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. No public opposition has arisen so far, and there just may be enough time left to push the bill through Congress before the session ends.

Basically the bill would set up uniform areas that would move their clocks ahead and back at the same times every year. For the most part, the bill would do away with situations in which one community is on standard time and the town next door on daylight time.

According to testimony before the House subcommittee, the country has such situations galore.

The bill now before Congress would try to end the nation's confusing time situation with these provisions:

1. The United States, except for Alaska and Hawaii, would be divided as now into four zones: Eastern, central, mountain, and Pacific. In addition, a new Atlantic zone would be created. This would be off the East Coast and not over any mainland at all.

2. To save daylight in warm summer months, the Interstate Commerce Commission would create a single subzone in each regular zone. This zone would be a geographic whole and would connect with the full zone to the east.

3. Daylight saving time would begin for all subzones on the last Sunday in April and end on the last Sunday in October.

4. It would not be called daylight saving time at all. Instead, the ICC would assign each subzone to the full zone to the East. In other words, a person living in the central time subzone would find that during the summer months he would use the term, Eastern standard time.

5. The bill would require all federal agencies, common carriers, and communications by wire or radio to use this time system. It is assumed that this would persuade all local communities to adopt the new system.

How South Will Vote Is Big Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big question in this year's presidential race is whether the South will "reward a political enemy and punish an old friend," Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., says.

In a statement released in Washington Sunday, Vinson said this would be the case if the South supports Sen. Barry Goldwater and opposes President Johnson.

He said the question is whether the South will be "blinded by its anger and frustration of the moment regarding its civil rights problems."

Vinson said there have been years "that organized agitators and do-gooder groups have been pushing the current civil rights crisis upon the South."

Johnson and Goldwater have voting records over these years, he said, "and both are poised today in roles almost exactly opposite their official records. Why?"

He said Johnson followed the course of all other Southerners "in attempting to stem the storm," while he said Goldwater "followed the opposite course" and "repeatedly identified himself with proponents for civil rights."

Contending that Goldwater has reversed himself, he asked, "Can it be purely for political expediency?"

"Mr. Hearnas may disavow the Establishment publicly," Shepley said, "but he will soon be back in the fold. He and the Establishment will find it is politically expedient to unite their forces."

Outlining his program for the state, Shepley said legislative reapportionment will be one of the biggest problems.

"Within the next two years," he said, "the entire constitutional structure of our state must be re-examined. The Supreme Court of the United States requires that we reapportion our state legislature. Unless this decision is changed by law, we must work quickly but with great deliberation to restructure our legislature within the law."

He said the new plan "must insure, in so far as possible, the right of the people to determine and approve the kind of government which they believe is best for them."

Local Jaycees To Host State Meet In March

Sedalia will host the 1965 state winter board meeting of the Missouri Jaycees next March 5, 6 and 7.

Bid on the meeting by the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce was accepted by the state organization during the group's summer board meeting over the weekend at Sikeston.

The three-day state board meeting will bring 400 to 500 Jaycees and their wives to Sedalia from all over Missouri. Events will open Friday night with registration and a mixer. Saturday will include various forums, a luncheon and banquet and the session concludes on Sunday morning with a business meeting. Bothwell Hotel will serve as convention headquarters.

Sedalia hosted its last state Jaycee meeting in October, 1962.

In awards judging at the board meeting at Sikeston it was a weekend of close seconds for the Sedalia Jaycees.

The local chapter's oral polio immunization clinics—Sabin on Sunday—missed by two-tenths of a percentage point in being the top project of the quarter within the Missouri Jaycees. St. Genevieve Jaycees conceived and pushed over a $500,000 hospital bond issue to give their county its first hospital and take the first place honor for projects.

Sedalia's entry in key man of the quarter judging also ran a close second. He was Carl Zimmerschied, 2409 Golf, who was chairman of the development of the Babe Ruth baseball diamond in Centennial Park.

Sheriff Report

Party Unity Attempt On 'Extremism'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, in a bid for party unity, says the "extremism" he advocated in defense of liberty could be paraphrased as "wholehearted devotion" to the cause of liberty.

The Republican presidential candidate, in his July 16 speech accepting the nomination, said: "I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. And let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Various prominent Republicans have urged the Arizona senator to elaborate on his use of the word "extremism."

In a letter to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, which Nixon made public Sunday, Goldwater said: "If I were to paraphrase the two sentences in question in the context in which I uttered them I would do it by saying that wholehearted devotion to liberty is unassailable and that half-hearted devotion to injustice is indefensible."

This was the concluding paragraph of the 550-word letter written, Nixon said, in response to a letter he sent to Goldwater on Aug. 4.

Goldwater said that "misunderstandings must not be permitted to stand in the way of the unity of principle and purpose that is essential to a Republican victory in November."

Goldwater further wrote: "One portion of that correct context — and a most important one — was the paragraph immediately preceding the two sentences in question."

"In it I urged that we resist becoming captives of 'unthinking labels' — most of all those coined with divisive intent by our political opponents, by those who reject the body of principle by which we define our Republican heritage."

"In that context the sentences that followed were but examples," he said, adding: "They were examples of a quality of devotion to liberty and justice — 'firmness in the right,' as Lincoln put it — for which no Republican and, indeed, no American need apologize."

"It goes without saying that such devotion would not countenance illegal or improper means to achieve our proper goals. In short, as stated in another setting in our 1964 platform, 'goals must ever discipline means.'"

Otis Thomas Attends Jeff City Meeting

Thomas was accompanied by his wife. Their daughters, Marcia, 15, Martha and Marjorie Lynn, 9, the latter, twins, went to Jefferson City with the couple to tour the capital.

Speakers scheduled Monday night are Shepley, Jean Paul Bradshaw, Republican nominee for U.S. Senator and other candidates. Shepley and Bradshaw are hosts at a reception Monday night.

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You are probably receiving more comments than you care to read on the question whether a man should be buried beside his second wife or buried beside the mother of his five children—the woman to whom he had been married for 40 years.

This is what happened in our family. I hope you will print my letter. To use your expression, it may clear some sinuses around the country.

Our beloved mother passed away in 1954. Dad married again in 1960. His second wife started in with that double plot business immediately after they were married. In exchange for peace and quiet, Dad agreed to a double plot for himself and his second wife.

Dad passed away last year. His wife remarried four months ago.

Yesterday I heard from a reliable source that the woman is now nagging her new husband for a double plot.

So this is the way it stands: Our beloved mother is lying alone in her half of a double plot and Dad is alone in his half of a double plot. They are on opposite sides of the cemetery. For us children it's the longest walk in the world. What do you have to say about this? — UNHAPPY CHILDREN

Dear Children: Plenty, but I won't. Move your father so that he and your mother are side by side.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 6-year-old son is allergic to cats. When he is within six feet of a cat his eyes itch and his face swells up with hives. It took us four months and $400 to find out what the trouble was.

My husband's mother lives in a small apartment on the other side of town. For years we've been going there for Sunday supper. Three weeks ago my mother-in-law's sister was widowed. She moved in with my mother-in-law and brought her two cats.

We told mother we cannot come to her place with the boy unless the cats are removed. She says the cats are like children to Aunt Bessie and that she would not insult her by asking her to leave the apartment and take the cats with her when we come to visit.

I resent mother putting Aunt Bessie's cats before our son's health. Will you offer a suggested course of action? — CAT-ASTROPHE

Dear Cat-Astrophe: Tell your mother-in-law you will be happy to have her at YOUR place for Sunday supper but you can't go there on account of the cats. Tell her, too, Aunt Bessie is welcome, but the cats are not.

Dear Ann Landers: Please, please help me out by telling my square parents that going steady does not mean I am getting married next month.

All it means is that I happen to like Gregg better than any other boy right now. It also means I am sure of a date and I don't have to sit around waiting for the telephone to ring.

There has been so much talk about how wrong it is to go steady that my folks have been pestering the life out of me to bust up with Gregg. Please be a friend to all teen-agers and say something in favor of going steady for a change. Thank you. —GINGER

Dear Ginger: Sorry, but I can't say anything in favor of going steady because I believe going steady is a foolish and hazardous practice.

Your opening sentence is interesting because I have heard from dozens of other teen-agers who didn't plan on getting married "next month" either — but that's exactly what happened.

Happy Birthday to a Great American

It is not given to many men to enter the ninth decade of life. Even fewer are those who reach that age still capable of purposeful work, who still have goals ahead of them and things they want to accomplish.

Even rarer is the man who can reflect that in his lifetime he has received the highest honors his fellows can accord him.

Rarest of all is the man who can look back with the knowledge that, because he lived, literally tens upon tens of millions of other human beings live.

There is one man, however, who qualifies for each of these categories — Herbert Clark Hoover, 31st president of the United States, now 90 years old.

It was the misfortune of Herbert Hoover, elected in a landslide in 1923, to be president on Oct. 29, 1929, when the New York stock market crashed and ushered in the worst depression in history. He went out in a political avalanche in 1932.

Given the simplistic nature of popular politics, it was inevitable that Hoover, who had warned Congress about the dangerous trend of the market, should be held to blame and his party go out of national power for the next 20 years.

But it has been the good fortune of Herbert Hoover to live not 20 but 32 years after those dark days. Now that the events which wrought his downfall have faded into the flat perspective of history, the real achievements of the man stand out in clearer relief.

The young Hoover was the very model of the self-made man, the brainy, pluck-and-luck fellow who makes the world his oyster — the type who, rather than the cowboy, is the real American hero.

He has had a lifetime of continuous activity abundant with relief to many millions of the world's population.

Herbert Hoover has had time also to write 30 books. His collection of 20th-century documents at Stanford will place historians in his debt for generations to come. He is just completing the fourth and last volume of his "An American Epic," the story of his World War II relief work.

We hope he will pause long enough from his busy day to accept the sincere birthday congratulations of his fellow Americans.

The World Today

Insight On Veep Selection Method

By J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American government, though a work of genius, still has points that are open to criticism.

One is the system for picking vice-presidential nominees. It has come to be assumed that if the presidential nominee of a party wants to decide the choice of his runningmate, he can do it.

The argument runs: A president is responsible for his administration, so it is only right that he pick his own team, certainly his No. 2 man.

But is it fair? Is it democratic for one man to make the decision, which could be fateful for the country? You can get an argument here.

No one doubts that President Johnson's voice will be the deciding one when the Democrats round out their ticket at Atlantic City this month.

Similarly, it was Barry Goldwater who did the deciding for the Republican convention at San Francisco, when the vice-presidential choice was William E. Miller.

And everybody knows how singlehandedly John F. Kennedy picked Lyndon B. Johnson to run with him in 1960.

A man running for a presidential nomination has it tough. He frequently has to go through great campaign agonies in a drive for votes — and spend a lot of money.

But to become the vice presidential nominee nowadays, a man doesn't have to do anything but look good to one other man — the presidential nominee.

It hasn't always been this way. The nation's founding fathers set up a system whereby the runner-up for president became the vice president. That system was junked with the growth of political parties.

And it hasn't always been the case even in recent years that the presidential nominee had the whole say-so on the vice-presidential pick. In 1956 Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, left the selection up to the convention.

But for the most part, the presidential nominees more and more have called the vice-presidential shots.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave his blessing to Richard M. Nixon for second place on his Republican ticket. He stuck with Nixon again in 1956.

In 1932 John Nance Garner, loser to Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination, was handed the vice-presidential nomination.

Later Garner criticized Roosevelt's third term plans. Roosevelt dropped him and picked Henry A. Wallace for his running mate. Then, in 1944 FDR let Wallace go and in the end it was Harry S. Truman who was vice president when Roosevelt died.

Instance after instance could be cited of the chancy, sometimes almost whimsical, ways in which vice presidents have been chosen.

Yet, eight men picked for vice president for one reason or another — sometimes by one man alone — have succeeded to the most powerful office in the land, not through merit but because the president died.

HIGHLIGHTS
AND
STATE
CAPITOLMany Questions Arise
From Primary Election

Probably the most noticeable result of last week's primary election is the variety of questions posed by the outcome, with the answers not expected to be solidified until after the November general election.

Both the winner of the Democratic gubernatorial race, Sec. of State Warren E. Hearnes, and the loser, Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush, launched their campaigns well before the normal time thought of as adequate to garner the nomination.

This in itself appeared to set the stage for what turned out to be one of the hardest fought gubernatorial battles in recent history in a Missouri state primary. Principally, the early campaigning created the need for vast monetary resources in both camps.

It was generally felt the Bush campaign, through its support by many high ranking state Democrats, would be the better financed and organized. But, as one observer commented, the Bush faction had too many chiefs and not enough Indians.

Hearnes, on the other hand, appeared to build a stronger organization as the campaign developed. The Hearnes people stated frankly that they felt Bush had reached his peak at the Jackson Day affair in Springfield last Spring.

This, many Hearnes supporters agreed, merely marked the point where their intensity would begin to be felt. And, as the results came in from the Aug. 4 balloting, this line of thinking seemed to hold water.

The 'Establishment'

Another factor which will be subjected to much editorial debate between now and November is the effect on the race of the "Establishment" question raised by Hearnes supporters. Using the theme that the Central Missouri Trust Co. and its associates dictate the Democratic choice for governor, Hearnes continued to pound away at the "Establishment," as it was labeled.

However, some feel Hearnes went too far in attacking these Democratic Party stalwarts and will be hurting for their support in coming weeks. This support will be vital to Hearnes in his effort against Ethan Shepley, the GOP gubernatorial nominee, according to many observers.

Shepley joined Hearnes during the primary race in attacking the "Establishment" and many now feel this very theme cost Bush the election. By Shepley siding with Hearnes on this matter, it would appear that the question of the Establishment role in the state government will be played down.

A new theme appears to be developing among the Republicans and that is the cry against one-party rule in Missouri and this, some feel, may dominate Shepley's attack on Hearnes.

One aspect of the Democratic primary posing a real worry to Democratic leaders at this juncture is the thought that if Hearnes' vote represented a protest against the entrenched Democratic organization, some of those who supported both Bush and Hearnes may switch allegiance in November and cast their ballots for Shepley.

Organization
There is no question that the Hearnes campaign, as far as organization is concerned, far surpassed the Bush efforts. Too, the great improvement in Hearnes' speaking ability during his campaign aided a great deal in solidifying his supporters and heightened his appeal.

Shepley, on the other hand, demonstrated that the GOP is girding for a real battle against the Democrats. His organization has shown how smoothly it can operate — and he had only token opposition.

Campaign Tactics

Generally, as far as the individual candidates were concerned, each held his campaign on a personal high plane. There have been constant references to dirty tactics and mud slinging and if this is found to be the case, it probably is attributable to campaign workers being carried away with enthusiasm at times.

Battle Ground

In conducting his successful campaign, Hearnes was accused of "promising all things to all people" and this is something he probably will find confronting him in what many believe will be a race as hot as the primary.

Although Hearnes said he anticipated no tax increase, the question was raised as to how to finance proposed colleges, bridges, etc. Hearnes stated that he felt his programs could be adequately financed through normal state growth, an argument his opponent decried vigorously.

Another area which many expect to be debated is the touchy reapportionment problem. Here, both Hearnes and Shepley are in apparent agreement on the need for such action, but their lines of approach can be expected to differ.

Shepley's campaign between now and November probably won't lack for financing. However, this may pose a problem for Democrats who dug deep in their pockets for the primary.

Just Before Convention

Congress Pushing for End
Of Session by August 22

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress pushes ahead today in a drive to clear the legislative decks and adjourn by the end of next week.

The target date for adjournment is Aug. 22 — two days before the Democratic National Convention opens in Atlantic City, N.J.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday night in a television-radio interview (NBC-Meet The Press) that he still hopes for adjournment by the 22nd, but added "I wouldn't bet on it."

If Congress doesn't finish its work by that date, he said, it will be back on the job after the convention.

Mansfield said "I am very proud of what this Congress and its predecessor have done." Asked about help from the Republican side of the aisle, he said "it has been very significant and much of the legislation which we've passed would not have been possible without Republican support."

He said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has "placed his country ahead of his party" and contributed particularly in foreign affairs.

Mansfield said he thought Dirksen's proposal to delay reapportionment of state legislatures stands a good chance of Senate passage.

The Democratic leader said he had been in touch with Dirksen and legal advisers over the weekend trying to work out another way to ease the effects of the Supreme Court's decision of last June 15 which said each legislative district must be "substantially equal" in population. It said both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned tioned on a "one person, one vote formula."

Dirksen in turn came up with a bill that would delay reapportionment for two years for some states, four years for others. He said he would include it as a rider on the foreign aid authorization bill. Mansfield said he doesn't believe Dirksen's approach on the delay "is the correct one" and "may well turn out" to be unconstitutional.

While the Senate continues its foreign aid debate today, the House takes up a bill to liberalize veterans' pension laws.

The House may tackle a housing bill about the middle of the week. The measure would extend the present public housing program for another year and increase it by 35,000 housing units.

The House also is scheduled this week to decide whether to try working out a compromise on a Senate-passed measure to set strict quotas on imported meat. The administration, fearful of the effect on U.S. negotiations for freer access to European markets for agricultural products, opposes the quota plan.

Supporters of a health care plan for the aged under Social Security continue to press their case before the Senate Finance Committee. There will be an effort to attach this program to the pending Social Security bill. But any such move, even if successful in the Senate, would face formidable opposition from House conferees.

The Senate also has on its calendar some $7 billion in appropriation bills for agricultural programs and military construction and the program to attack the economic problems of the Appalachian area.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Miss Laura Margaret Mellette, librarian at Smith-Cotton High school, has presented her resignation to the Sedalia Board of Education. She has accepted a position as librarian at a high school in Redlands, Calif.

— 1939 —

C. P. Keck, who recently returned to Sedalia to reside, has purchased an interest in the Bard Drug store, and will be personally with the business. Mr. and Mrs. Keck, for the past seven years have resided in Bourbon, Mo. They are now located at 417 West Fifth street.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Fred "Fritz" Etzbach, 1107 South Massachusetts avenue, for the past 40 years a mail carrier on all Sedalia routes, has made his last trip before beginning a 15 day vacation. After that he will retire on a $60 per month pension. He is one of the best known postoffice employees in the city.

Capital 'B' Please

Scotland has its Scotch, Canada and Ireland their own whiskeys, France its Cognac brandy. Now the United States has its Bourbon.

Note that it's spelled with a capital "B"—the result of a concurrent congressional resolution honoring Bourbon as "a distinctive product of the United States."

What it means is that Bourbon will henceforth be internationally recognized and protected, as are the other national drinks,

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Kennedy Sets Course Via Senate

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Kennedy was being cross-examined by a group of Democratic candidates for the House and Senate. Said one Kennedy partisan:

"Up in Rochester, we had a great love and respect for your brother. Two hundred and fifty thousand people lined the streets when he came up there. The only way we can carry upstate New York again is by having another Kennedy on the ticket."

"I've given that a lot of thought," replied Bobby Kennedy, "and last week I talked to a couple of my friends and decided not to run."

His reply brought down the house.

However, close friends of Bobby's say that he has now made up his mind to run in the state where his friend says he is so popular — New York.

It is known that President Johnson would be delighted to have the Attorney General on the ticket as senator from New York. It's also a fact that Bobby is extremely popular among Catholic, Jewish, and Negro voters, would also get a lot of other support.

Finally, the cleavage in the Republican party with Goldwater champion Clare Boothe Luce scowling at the liberal policies of Sen. Ken Keating, the Republican incumbent, should make the race a walk-away for Kennedy.

The Attorney General is only 38 years old. He has been one of the most devoted brothers in American history. He did a superb job of managing his brother's campaign. He took the knocks, let his brother get the praise. He was at his brother's elbow during all his most difficult crises.

And recently, Bob Kennedy has shown a real insight into foreign affairs, made a shrewd move in going to Poland where he demonstrated, by the crowds that followed him in the street, how popular the United States is with the great mass of people, despite their government. This proved the fallacy of the Goldwater argument that the United States should give the cold shoulder to the satellite nations.

However, being only 38, Bobby could have a great career in the Senate, and in eight years, or even twelve, still be young enough to make a run for the White House rather than going in the side door — as vice president — in case of tragedy.

War vs. Baseball

It was 1:30 a.m. Dean Rusk had been at his desk all evening. Cables were coming in from Saigon, Hong Kong, the Philippines, from the manufacture, importation and sale of imitations.

Fittingly, 1964 marks the 175th anniversary of the first concoction of Bourbon in the wilderness of Kentucky in 1789 by the Rev. Elijah Craig, who delved into things spiritual as well as spiritual.

Deriving its name from Bourbon County, Ky., where it was originally produced, the whisky is now made in other parts of the United States. A lot of farmers, bottle manufacturers, label printers, stopper makers and interested friends will probably raise a glass in memory of Bourbon's birth.

regarding attacks on U. S. destroyers and American retaliation. The Secretary of State looked tired.

"Here is the text of Ambassador Stevenson's speech to be delivered at the U.N. tomorrow, Mr. Secretary," said one of Rusk's aides. "Do you want to go over it?"

Rusk took time to read over the speech, made a couple of minor suggestions.

He drafted some cables to be sent to American allies reporting what was happening. The night wore on. Finally, between 3:30 and 4 a.m., the Secretary of State went to bed.

The next day he was up and at his desk at the usual time. Later, the TV networks asked for an interview regarding the Vietnamese crisis. Rusk was exhausted but accommodated them. The interview took much longer than anticipated, but he was patient.

Later that day, State Department officials were shocked to learn that local TV outlets had failed to use the interview which Rusk had taken time out to give. The reason: baseball. The ball game was considered more important than the threat of war.

Goldwater and Peking

State Department experts have been trying to figure out just what connection, if any, there is between the American election, the argument between Moscow and Peking, and the deliberate attack on U. S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

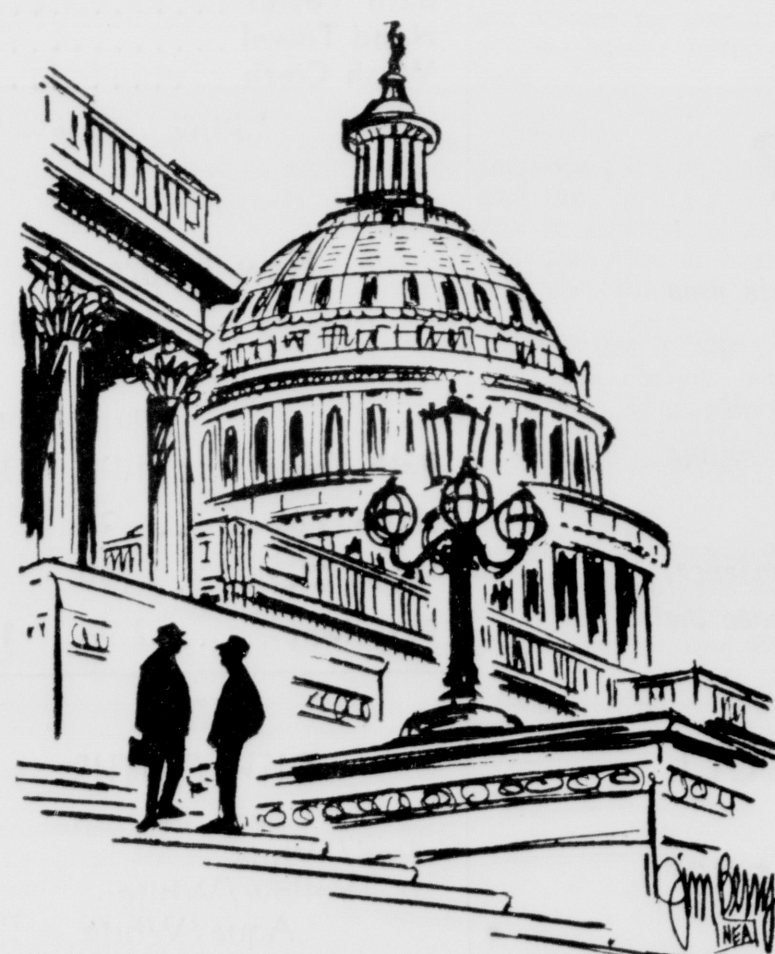

Only conclusion the experts can reach is that the Goldwater candidacy is duck soup for the Red Chinese. It fits in exactly with their thesis that you can't get along with the Western world.

The Russians have been arguing that nuclear war is so catastrophic no nation can afford it, that the capitalist world doesn't want war, that President Johnson is a reasonable man. Khrushchev has repeatedly said that the old Marxist doctrine of inevitable war between capitalism and communism is out of date, that co-existence is the only alternative.

Now, however, the Chinese Reds can point to one U. S. candidate for president who has denounced co-existence and whose party has officially gone on record for removal of the hot line between Moscow and Washington, the teletype line set up to prevent accidental war.

This is what the Chinese have been telling the Russians — namely, that you can't trust the capitalist West and that the United States at heart wants war.

FARMING---

Across Pettis County

By LARRY HALE

Director, MU Extension Center

Lawns

There has been several questions concerning lawn problems recently.

There are three main reasons why a lawn may fail: 1. mowing to short. 2. Insufficient or improper watering. Whenever less than 50 per cent of a lawn is covered with Kentucky bluegrass, complete reconstruction or renovation will usually be necessary. The seedbed should be prepared this month so it will be ready for sowing the first part of September.

A completely dormant brown lawn can be started into growth after the middle of this month by watering adequately until fall rains take over. Serious injury will result if a lawn is re-watered and then not watered regularly until rains maintain the soil at an adequate moisture content.

Toward the end of this month, bluegrass normally will be stimulated into vigorous growth again by the cooler temperatures and fall rains. This is the time to apply a complete fertilizer to the lawn. One of the special turf mixes can be used at rates suggested by the manufacturer. Where the soil contains adequate phosphate and potash (due to repeated use of a complete fertilizer in the past or large amounts incorporated into soil at time of construction), 3 pounds (4 pints) of ammonium nitrate or 2 pounds (3 pints) of urea per 1000 square feet may be sufficient if a complete fertilizer is used at least once every two years.

Farm type fertilizers, such as a 12-12-12 or 15-15-15 analysis, can be obtained at farm supply outlets and make satisfactory fertilizers for lawns. Their only disadvantage is that long term use will add more phosphate and potash to the soil than Kentucky bluegrass requires. Farm fertilizers containing ammonium phosphate (ammo - phos) are especially recommended because this form of phosphorus is more soluble than superphosphate and penetrates more readily to the root zone. It would be desirable to use this kind of fertilizer (analyses such as 10-22-12, 12-24-12) where a shortage of phosphate and potash is suspected or determined through a soil test.

Cooling Hogs in Summer

All swine feeders want fast gain for those hogs that they're feeding this summer. If you are going to make money — they have to give fast gains. Hogs must be provided with a comfortable environment in order to make fast and efficient gains.

Since the hog does not have a natural means of cooling, such as the evaporation of sweat, he is adversely affected by hot weather. When the temperature becomes too warm, the pigs will attempt to reduce the effects of the heat by seeking shade, refrain from exercise, reduce feed intake, seek a wallow or cool surface and increase respiration rate.

The optimum temperature for the growing-finishing pig is between 60 and 75 degrees. As the temperature rises above 75 degrees, pigs will eat less and gains begin to slow down. The problem is increased greatly when the temperature rises into the 90's or goes above 100 degrees. At these temperatures, death of the pig may occur unless protection is provided.

In confinement feeding where hogs are crowded, some means of cooling must be provided. Shade is not a problem and drinking water is available. Slat-floored pens are used by some feeders create more of a problem than does a concrete floor. Hogs suffer more from the heat on a slat floor than they do on concrete or dirt because of little or no evaporation from slats.

Probably the best method of cooling hogs in confinement is to use a fine mist spray. Spray nozzles are available which will deliver 1 to 2 gal. of water per hour. This amount of water will evaporate and there will be little or no run-off. The entire feeding floor should not be covered with this spray. It is best to cover only 1-4 to 1-3 of the area.

An automatic mechanism can be connected to the thermostat which will turn on the spray when the temperature reaches a certain point. However, sprays need to be turned off early enough in the evening so that pigs will dry off before night.

Crossbreeding Hogs

Crossbreeding hogs is recommended for most commercial swine operations according to the University of Missouri extension animal husbandman.

Major advantages, are heavier weaning weights, more pigs weaned, and improved vigor and livability.

Where no more than three breeds are used in a crossbreeding program, the disadvantages seem to be few. Use of more than three breeds may not be justified because of variation in the type and color among the pigs. (Cross breeding does nothing to improve carcass quality in hogs. The quality must be present in the parent stock.

Self Feeding Cattle Tests Results

Gains were faster, but the risk was higher when beef cattle on pasture were self fed shelled corn, compared to self feeding ground ear corn to cattle on pasture.

University of Missouri research in self feeding as a method of finishing cattle also showed the cost for processing feed was less when cattle were self fed roughages and concentrates separately, than when roughage was ground and combined in the ration with the concentrate. Gains were equal.

Feeding roughage combined with the concentrate was safe, especially during the first three weeks of feeding.

Ground ear corn, compared with ground shelled corn, fed with hay free choice, revealed no differences; both were equally effective. The choice of which to feed would depend on grain storage and available feed stuffs on the farm.

Management practices for self feeding beef cattle recommended by the Agricultural Experiment Station are:

Carefully balance the ration as to protein, vitamins, and minerals. Include the mineral mix with the concentrates.

Do not turn hungry cattle to a concentrate-filled feeder.

Never let feeders, hay mangers, mineral feeders or waterers become empty.

Do not try to limit grain intake when some scouring occurs.

Observe cattle closely each day.

Include 20 to 30 percent roughage in the concentrate plus roughage free choice the first three weeks to reduce the risk of digestive upsets during this critical period.

Provide dry roughage free choice to cattle self fed concentrates on lush pasture.

Continue to use a corn silage and pasture programs to condition cattle for finishing. Self feeding fits the finishing period.

COMBAT THE Dairyman's "Squeeze"

"How can dairymen make more money?" What are some practical ideas to help them combat the cost-price squeeze in the dairy industry?

Extension Farm Management Specialist Charles Beer gives a simple... but by no means complete answer. Beer suggests the individual dairy farmer faced with the cost-price squeeze examine the production records on his individual cows... and find out what dollar returns he is getting from the feed, labor and fixed costs he is putting into the cows. If he finds individual cows that are not carrying their own weight... simply cull out these cows out.

Other cows which may be adding some net profit might well be replaced with higher producing cows which require no more labor or feed... but might add more to the net profit of the individual farm.

Beer says, in effect, the answer consists of cutting costs and increasing returns... a very simple factor to accomplish if one has complete records of the income and costs on his individual operation so these adjustments can be made.

Records make it easier for you to be successful in cutting costs and increasing your returns. How about it? Are your records complete enough?

Edie Adams To Marry Publisher

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next Sunday Edie Adams will marry Marjorie Mills of the music publishing family, thus ending a chapter of courage and determination.

For a year and a half, the talented actress has followed a hard and lonely course in untangling the financial mess left after her husband, comedian Ernie Kovacs, was killed in an auto crash.

Edie eschewed the help of Ernie's many famous friends, who proposed a television special or series to benefit the comedian's widow and three daughters. Instead, she undertook a non-stop schedule that included three movies, a series of television shows, night club and summer theater tours, and record albums.

Her industry succeeded in extricating the estate from its burden of debts and unpaid taxes. "But it nearly killed me," she admitted. "After it was all over, I realized if I had to do just one thing more, I would have collapsed. I didn't have the energy."

Edie is back at her Coldwater Canyon home, struggling to get it ready for the wedding. She and Mills will be married before their families only, with a big reception following at the Beverly Hilton. The pair will honeymoon in Hawaii. Mills, 37, and a bachelor, is a New Yorker who will now help conduct the family business in Hollywood.

How did they meet? "The first time was back in 1953, at a party in Red Buttons' apartment in New York," she recalled. "I was dating Ernie at the time. I saw Marty off and on through the years, but it was very casual."

"Then last January I was in New York having dinner with Janet Leigh and her husband, Bob Brandt. The next day he called me for a date. I had to break it because of work, and it's a wonder he ever called me again."

"But he did, and our first date was — Red Buttons' wedding! Later he took me to dinner at a very fancy restaurant, and I remember thinking how formal he was. I found out later he was thinking the same about me."

She added that Marty got along beautifully with the three girls of her family from the start. There are two daughters of Kovacs' previous marriage, 17 and 15½, and his and Edie's Mia, 5.

Mrs. Eldon DeMott Speaks At 4-H Meet

Donna DeMott gave a demonstration on the types of hair styles and the right type of clothes.

Reports were given on County Council Camp for older and younger groups and District Day.

There were 19 members present, two visitors and two leaders.

A swimming party and tour was planned for Aug. 13.

Mays Personally Lifts Club To Two Weekend Victories

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays personally lifted the San Francisco Giants to two weekend victories, tripling home the only run in Saturday's 1-0 victory over Cincinnati, then collecting four hits for the first time this season as the Giants whipped the Reds 7-5 Sunday.

Not since May when he was hitting above the .400 mark has the $100,000-a-year outfielder put on such an outstanding one-man show as he did Sunday. He slammed his 32nd homer, a double and two singles, drove in three runs, scored two and stole two bases.

Mays, bothered by a heavy cold, was not scheduled to play against the Mets at New York last Wednesday. But with Manager Al Dark under fire and his job threatened, Mays asked to be inserted in the lineup.

"I shouldn't be playing," he said, "but I've got to help that man."

That was the last he said on the subject.

Since then, in four games, he's hit three homers, driven in six runs and collected eight hits in 17 at-bats.

'Have-Nots' May Become '64 'Haves'

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco 49ers, the Los Angeles Rams and the Kansas City Chiefs, the have-nots of 1963, may become the haves of 1964 in professional football.

That appears to be one of the first conclusions that could be drawn from the opening of the exhibition season that drew 282,441 fans to 10 games, seven Saturday night and three Sunday afternoon. The six National League games drew 219,116 and the four American League games 63,325.

The 49ers, who had their worst season in 1963, scored an easy 26-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns before 27,404 Sunday at San Francisco. Quarterback John Brodie, injured most of last season, completed 15 of 25 passes for 188 yards and one touchdown.

Roman Gabriel, who is expected to lead the Rams back to title contention in the NFL, sparked the Rams to a 17-6 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys before 57,450 at Los Angeles. He completed 16 of 26 passes for 159 and set up both Ram touchdowns.

Kansas City, the 1963 flop of the year in the AFL after winning the championship in 1962, whipped the Oakland Raiders 21-14 before 11,118 at Oakland. The passing of Len Dawson and Eddie Wilson sparked the Chiefs to an early lead and their strong defense thwarted a late Oakland threat.

The largest crowd, an estimated 65,000, turned out at New Orleans where the St. Louis Cardinals upset the Green Bay Packers 20-7. Star back Paul Hornung, back in action after a year's suspension for betting on games, carried the ball only five times for Green Bay. He gained a total of 29 yards, his best effort a 16-yard run.

The Minnesota Vikings whipped the New York Giants 21-7 before 31,581 at Minneapolis and the Detroit Lions nipped the Washington Redskins 28-27 before 18,781 at Charlotte.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, who was a leading candidate when Frick was elected in 1951, is 68 and too old to start a seven-year term.

After the executive council meets, the National and American Leagues will convene separately this afternoon. They will meet in a joint session Tuesday morning.

Included on the agenda are requests from the players for no night games on getaway days and no mid-season exhibition games involving night travel.

A suggestion for a free-agent draft, similar to the one conducted by professional football, will be considered. However, it is expected the owners will defer any action for another year to give the current first year rule another try. Clubs now are forced to keep high priced bonus kids on their rosters or risk losing them for the $8,000 waiver price.

Eagles Are All Shook Up Through Series of Swaps

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles are all shook up. A series of deals by Joe Kuharich, the new head coach, swept out such old familiar faces as Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and replaced them with Norm Snead, Earl Gros, Red Mack and a host of rookies.

Things are in a state of flux in the Eagles' training camp because everybody is new. There is a new owner, Jerry Wolman, new coaching staff, new system and new personnel. Most important, Kuharich hopes, is a new spirit.

"We know we have an uphill struggle," said the former Notre Dame coach. "We are behind everybody else but we hope to improve on last year's cellar record of 2-10-2. We have a young front line on offense with the exception of Jim Ringo and Pete Retzlaff. Basically we will be a blend of the old and the new."

"We just couldn't go along with the defense they had last year. The worst thing is to score 24 or 28 points and still get beat. Your defense should be able to hold the other team to between 21 and 24 points."

The addition of Gros, a fine fullback from Green Bay, plus the speed and drive of Tim Brown, the holdover halfback, gives the Eagles a more powerful running game. Kuharich expects help from Ollie Matson, his old San Francisco U. protegee who was acquired from Detroit.

Norm Snead, the quarterback who came from Washington in the deal for Jurgensen will have split ends Ron Goodwin and Ray Poage, tight end Retzlaff and flanker Red Mack, ex-Pittsburgh Steeler, as his prime targets. If Snead falters, King Hill is available. Jack Concannon, rookie from Boston College,

Orioles Run Flag Fever; NY Running a Tired Third

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles wound up a key, four-game series Sunday at Yankee Stadium before the season's biggest crowd — 58,102. It was the first of several August sets in which the Yankees usually chop down their American League pennant rivals.

When Sunday's doubleheader had ended, however, Baltimore was running a high flag fever while New York was running a tired third in the league's stretch race.

The Orioles' 4-2 victory in the finale kept them two games in front of the Yankees — the Chicago White Sox are second, 1½ games out — and the Yanks needed a clutch pitching effort by Al Downing in their 2-1 first game decision to avert a Baltimore series sweep. The Orioles won 2-0 Friday night and 6-5 Saturday.

"I'm satisfied with three out of four from them any time," Manager Hank Bauer said after the twin bill, "especially in their backyard."

The Yankees get another shot at the Orioles next weekend at Baltimore but, at present, the defending AL champions are in their worst position at this stage of the race since 1959, when the White Sox took the flag. The Yankees have four games with Chicago coming up while the Orioles play host to Boston, with a good opportunity to increase their lead.

The White Sox divided a doubleheader with the Red Sox, losing the opener 6-3 and copping the second game 4-1. The Detroit Tigers ran their longest winning streak of the campaign to seven with a 4-2, 5-2 sweep of Kansas City but Cleveland's victory string ended at five when Minnesota beat the Indians 3-1 after a 7-0 first-game loss.

Washington rallied for five runs in the ninth inning and edged the Los Angeles Angels 6-5 in the league's only single game.

The Orioles beat the Yankees at their own game — power, defense, opportunism — through-out the series.

Gary Peters fired a six-hitter, boosting his record to 13-6, in the White Sox' second game victory while Pete Ward drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly.

US Heads For Better Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States, still trying to catch the leaders in women's track and field, could be headed for its best showing in many years in the 1964 Olympic Games.

Much of the U.S. success or failure depends on the performance of slim, Edith McGuire of Tennessee State, a swift 20-year-old who stands as her apparent to Wilma Rudolph as queen of the American sprinters.

The United States has won only 10 medals, six gold, one silver and three bronze, in women's track in the four Olympics since World War II. The harvest of four — Wilma's 100 and 200-meter triumphs, a relay victory and a bronze in the shot — in 1960 was this country's best.

Though still trailing many European nations and Russia in the development of women athletes, the weekend U.S. Olympic women's track and field trials would indicate this country is catching up.

Miss McGuire, who won three gold medals in the recent meet against Russia, is the key. She ran a wind-blown 11.3 in winning the 100 meters, just one-tenth of a second off the world record. And she took the 200 in 23.4, time good enough to win the 1960 Olympic event.

She was hard-pressed by Marilyn Brown, Los Angeles, in the 100 and the United States qualified a full complement of three in each dash — which should give this country depth enough to put together an outstanding 400-meter relay team.

Added strength comes from veteran Willye White, silver medalist in 1956, who broad jumped 21-4 — with the wind — just two inches short of her own pending record. Martha Watson of Long Beach, Calif., was 21-3.

In all, America qualified 19 girls in 20 positions — with Miss McGuire the only double qualifier — in the three-day trials at Randall's Island.

CONVENTIONS AND CRISES/ The Democrats

by Don Oakley and Ed Kudlaty

"Democrats" they call themselves, those eager delegates from the 50 United States and its territories, now foregathering for the 34th time to choose their party's standard bearers for the next four years.

Yet oddly enough, the Democrats were once all good Republicans, followers of the party founded by Thomas Jefferson. Their opponents, the Federalists, slurringly referred to them as "Democratic Republicans" for democracy then was equated with mobocracy.

The Jefferson men accepted the name and kept it until 1828. The Federalist Party, long dead, experienced a form of revival that year when President John Quincy Adams split off from the Democratic Republicans to form the National Republicans (later called Whigs) and to contest the presidential election with Andrew Jackson.

After Jackson won, his party's name was shortened to "Democratic." It was Mr. Jackson's party, indeed. His eight years at its head left it strong, disciplined and well-organized. It was Jackson who called the first Democratic convention in 1832 and there laid down the rule that a candidate must receive the votes of two-thirds of the delegates to be nominated — a rule that was to paralyze more than one convention during the next 100 years.

It was at their fourth convention, in 1844, that the Democrats produced the first dark horse in American politics, James K. Polk, who was chosen instead of one of the deadlocked leading contenders, former President Martin Van Buren and Gen. Lewis Cass.

Four years later Van Buren and Cass were at it again when the Democrats witnessed the first walkout of a faction from a national convention — that of the antislavery "Barnburners."

The "Barnburners" held their own convention in Utica, N.Y., and nominated Van Buren. However, the Whig candidate, Mexican War hero Gen. Zachary Taylor, defeated both him and the Democrats' Cass.

The issue of slavery had temporarily split the Democrats. By the 1850s, this unsolvable but unavoidable problem had virtually destroyed the Whig Party and resulted in the birth of a dedicated and fast-growing antislavery party called the Republicans.

As convention time neared in 1860, the Democratic Party faced the greatest crisis in its history. It was entirely possible that neither it nor the nation itself would long endure.

Rodriguez Answers For Everything

CHICAGO (AP) — Chi Chi sugar cane, I never thought I Rodriguez, the long-driving, 120-pound Puerto Rican, has an answer for everything.

After winning top prize of $11,000 in the Western Open, he cracked.

"When I was a kid fertilizing would pretend I was asleep in the back seat. When the check came in a restaurant, I would sneak away to the men's room. "Pete did a lot for me. He changed my grip and it changed my whole golf game.

"Also, I have tremendous respect for Ed Dudley. He hired me as assistant pro at Dorado Beach (in Puerto Rico). He gave me the down payment for a home and my first car. He was a great man.

Cooper is a veteran pro now in Sorrento, Fla. Dudley died last October.

Chi Chi, a 28-year-old bachelor who once wanted to make a career as a baseball pitcher, now is head pro at Dorado Beach. His winnings from the Western Open boosted him from ninth to sixth on the PGA earning list with $46,610.

Chi Chi, who constantly jabs with his fans — of whom there were plenty among the record 20,600 for a Western Open in Sunday's gallery — won with a closing 36-31 for a 72-hole total of 268.

He finished two holes ahead of Arnold Palmer, defending champion. They had started the last round in a dead heat for the lead at 201.

Palmer was one-stroke behind with three holes to go. On the 70th, he missed a 10-foot birdie putt that would have squared him.

On the 71st he was over the green on his approach. He went to the cup coming back, but the ball rolled 25 feet past. He wound up with a bogey. He couldn't recover from that even with an 18-foot birdie tap on the 72nd and finished with a 68 for 269.

Sharing third place at 275 were Jack Nicklaus and Don Massengale. Ken Venturi was next at 277. Grouped at 278 were Stan Leonard, Tony Lema, Tom Veck, Jim Ferrier and Billy Casper.

Drowns In Big River

HOUSE SPRINGS, Mo. (AP) — Jack LaChance, 22, of St. Louis drowned Saturday in the Big River at Hoene Springs near House Springs, Mo.

Deaf Hold 3-Day Silent Convention

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — About 250 persons closed a three-day convention Sunday by electing a new president.

The politicking had the same nerve as a national party convention, but there was this big difference — not a word was spoken.

William Fansler of Topeka, the new president of the Kansas Association of the Deaf, delivered his opening speech in sign language.

Mrs. Glen Dillenschneider of Kansas City sang "America" with her hands, and Howard Palmer of Jackson, Miss., drew roars of laughter with a pantomime act.

At a convention dance Saturday night the floor was jammed with couples. The deaf explained they could feel the beat of the music through the soles of their feet.

Probing Deficit In School Funds At Warrenton

WARRENTON, Mo. (AP) — Warren County Sheriff Melvin Twiehaus and prosecuting attorney Robert Hoelscher are investigating a deficit of $63,766 in Warren County's R-3 school district.

"We are just starting the investigation," Hoelscher said, "and there is no evidence so far of any law violations."

William Early, school board president, said no evidence of fraud — "to my knowledge" — has been found.

The school board said last week a tax increase of $1.50 on each $100 of assessed valuation is needed to make up the deficit. The present school tax rate is $3.20.

More than half the deficit is in unpaid teachers salaries, school Supt. William A. Hope said. Hope said the reason for the deficit was that school taxes were reduced from $3.50 to the present 1963-1964 rate. Early said the school tax election probably would be held in September.

Cards Set Colts Down On 7 Hits

By the Associated Press
St. Louis remains eight games off the National League pace set by Philadelphia after Ray Sadecki set the Houston Colts down on seven-hits Sunday for an 8-2 Cardinal victory.

Sadecki now is the winningest pitcher on the Cardinal staff with a record of 13 victories against 9 defeats. His teammates supported him with a 15-hit attack.

Last place Kansas City of the American League took it on the chin twice from the Tigers in Detroit, 4-2 and 5-2.

Dick Groat and Tim McCarver each had three hits for the Cards and Bill White extended his hitting streak to 17 games. Ken Boyer only recorded one hit but boosted his runs-batted-in total to 81, tops in the league.

The Colts loss was charged to Bob Bruce who left after three innings because of a sore back. St. Louis led 2-1 at the time.

Kansas City managed to collect only 9 hits in two games, five in the first and four in the second. Wayne Causey homered in the second.

Norm Cash hit two home runs for the Tigers, one in each game and Bill Freeman and Al Kaline each hit a four-bagger in the second contest.

Orlando Pena and Moe Drabowsky were the losers. Julio Navarro and Denny McLain the victors. The A's have now lost five straight.

Kansas City is idle today while the Cards will send Bob Gibson against San Francisco's Ron Herbel in St. Louis tonight.

Shepley Sees Tough Uphill Vote Campaign

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — About 600 Republicans from all over Missouri attended the 14th annual party given Sunday by Mrs. Stanley Ginn, national committeewoman.

The group had a basket dinner on the lawn of the Ginn home and heard speeches by state-wide candidates.

Ethan Shepley, running for governor, told the crowd that Republicans can elect a governor and U.S. senator in November, although it will be a tough, uphill battle.

Jean Paul Bradshaw, candidate for the Senate, said Republicans must offer solutions to governmental problems. Referring to his Democratic opponent, Sen. Stuart Symington, Bradshaw said:

"Symington sees no problem, knows no problems and understands no problems. He has still got the presidential bug in his bonnet. I thought the Kennedys got that off his back."

Other candidates present included William J. Jones, for secretary of state; Perry Compton, for state treasurer; Ben Rogers, for 8th District Congressman, and Anthony Schroeder, for 9th District Congressman.

WITH THE MISSOURI STATE FAIR opening less than two weeks away activity is becoming brisk on the grounds. Concessionaires and work crews were going at fever pitch, this weekend, aided by the cooler temperatures that moved into the area Saturday. Lon Morris, 1815 South Grand, was in the process of installing a completely new booth for Post 16, American Legion, when this picture was taken Saturday.

1964 IS TWENTIETH YEAR FOR LIVINGS—June Livingood, a native Sedalian now of Overland Park, Kan., was caught painting the family concession booth Saturday afternoon. She was aided by members of the family in the job of giving the booth a complete face-lifting. Mrs. Livingood notes that this will be the 20th year the family has had a booth at the fair.

MU Speaker Relates

College Girl More Complex Creature In Modern World

Mrs. Marjorie Gilbreath Ryckman, assistant director, Student Affairs for Women, at the University of Missouri, Columbia, was the speaker at the August meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Thursday evening at Bothwell Hotel. She is a former Sedalian.

In speaking of her work she pointed out that she was dealing with college girls, and went on to say that the college girl is a very complex creature, she has changed in the past generation. There are an increased number of college girls today. She looks forward to a much longer life. Her expectations are different, for she expects to work 35 years after she has had her children. Her horizons are much wider than even ten years ago. There are no schools without women enrolled today, women are even enrolled as engineers.

The requirements of the college girl today, Mrs. Ryckman said, have increased tremendously, not only socially but labor wise. Labor used to be like a pyramid, with a wide base of unskilled labor and gradually narrowing to a small point of professional people, but that is changed today. The college girl of today finds cultural requirements much higher. The graduating class is growing larger and competition much greater, she needs to spend more effort and time.

Concept Changes

The concept of women has changed, the speaker said, and women must make the adjustment to life of individuals instead of individuals for a mold. The college girl of today has never known a world without television and she has lived mostly in the space world. She must work hard to get to the top.

College girls of a generation ago or even less were provided a profession and college did not provide anything outside classes. In college today, Mrs. Ryckman stated, they are there to learn to live as well as to learn to learn. That is what the dean of students and staff are for.

The people try to create an image for the students of someone they might talk to. Mrs. Ryckman has a chair she calls the problem chair, for almost the first thing the girl says when she sits down in it is "I have a problem."

Need to Talk

She went on to say that they try to work through the organizations mostly, and through her organizations the college girl learns to develop her potentialities.

"Chiefly," said Mrs. Ryckman, "we listen. Many times people just need to talk."

Many things have changed with the college girls, but integrity and honor are as good now as they were a generation ago.

These young women with whom they deal, Mrs. Ryckman continued, are between 17 and 22, at the end of the adolescent stage and the beginning of an adult. There is high hopes for her growth, but in lots of things she is not ready. It takes, however, a good deal of keeping up to date by the staff.

Hard on Wrong-Doers

She has so many roles to face she needs to live it in good taste, and they try to stress what is best evidence of the educated woman. The wrong-doer, she stated, welcomes punishment. It helps her to atone. But the young people are harder on a wrong-doer than the staff, Mrs. Ryckman said. The judicial board passes judgment and the punishment is always greater.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Marian Laudenberger, chairman of the personal development committee.

Miss Laudenberger also presented Rita Hamlin, who went to Girls State and was sponsored by the BPWC and Susan Longan, who was sponsored by BPWC to go to 4-H Camp.

Rita gave an interesting account of the procedure and elections at Girls State stating that she was a member of the Nationalist and that the Nationalists had a clean sweep, which was the first time for a clean sweep by a party since Girls State began, and this was the second year in a row that they had had a Nationalist governor, so they really set records.

"I was tax collector," said Rita, "and that was fun."

Susan told of 4-H Camp where walking was the only means of transportation. She told of the IFYE delegates who were there and sang in their own native language.

Mothers Guests

Mrs. Ralph Hamlin, mother of Rita and Mrs. Robert Longan, mother of Susan, were guests of the club. Rita and Susan were born just a day apart and their mothers shared the same room at the hospital at that time — now they were sharing the honors of their daughters who had both been chosen to represent BPWC.

The special music was by two teen-age girls Diana and Nancy Gray, who sang several numbers, solos and duets, and ended up by singing the very appropriate song, "Sisters." They were accompanied by Bill Long.

Mrs. Lily Thomas, president, presided over the business meeting, and gave an interesting report of the national BPWC convention which she attended in Detroit, Mich., as did Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, state vice-president. Both were delegates from the Sedalia club.

Invocation was given by Miss Bessie Perkins, chaplain.

Mrs. Lila Deal introduced the following guests: Sue Dyer, guest of Harriet Shaw; Jessie Edler, St. Joseph, guest of Marion Laudenberger; Ann Griffin and Virginia Mullins, guest of Mary Whiteside; Margaret Johnson, Marie Smith, Faye Helsley and Barbara Flower, guests of Lily Thomas; Alma Hausam, guest of Bessie Perkins; Dennis Jackson, guest of Gladys Michaels; Lynn and Jan Northcutte, Evansville, Ind., and Pam Price, all guests of Nyra Price.

Miss Erma Fajen has been appointed as "Busy Lizzie" editor taking the place of Mrs. Evelyn Staples, who has left town.

FORTY YEARS AGO Column:

A recently completed floral design on the lawn of Gillespie's Funeral Home, bearing the word "Gillespie's" in vari-colored plants, is attracting considerable favorable comment from passersby. The flower bed is about eight feet long and contains masses of beautiful flowers. The design adds materially to the beauty of the spacious lawn at the home.
